CAPE FEAR RIVER IMPROVEMENTS.

The storm of the 25th and 27th of August, was not very severe along the coast in the vicinity of our river. Yet we have been informed that it did considerable damage to the U. S. improvements of the Cape Fear inlet. The fact is a great many of our people have come to the conclusion that considerable money is being expended without correspondingly benefitting our harbor. Some believe it is for the want of good judgment on the part of the officers in charge. We are free to say that the matter ought to warrant a thorough investigation by the higher officials of the government. A work that has already cost $1,200,000, and bids fair to cost as much more, should have an officer in charge of the highest integrity and capacity. This the people of Wilmington have a right to expect and demand, and we have not the least doubt but what the able Chief of the Engineer Department will give the proper consideration to this important matter, and relieve all grounds for further complaint on the part of our people.

General T. L. Clingman has been writing about the constitutional difficulties in the present situation of affairs. Mr. Kenneth Rayner, well known to North Carolinians of a quarter of a century ago, for he is a native and represented the Hertford district several times in the U. S. House, has written a reply, that would make quite two columns of the Star solid. He hits the nail on the head in this solution.—Wilmington Star.

Hon. Kenneth Rayner is the present able Solicitor of the U. S. Treasury and whatever he says on constitutional law will be received in North Carolina, where he is so well and popularly known, as its true version.

THIEVES.—The rascals, who have been punching gold and siver coins, have been brought up with a short halter by a government order. A double eagle, punched, is declared to be worth only $19, instead of $20; silver dollars, 85 cents; half dollars, 35 cents; quarter of dollars, 16 cents, and dimes, 5 cents. This government order punched these villains under the short ribs.

LUCKY DOGS.—Under the amended Pension Act any person who participated in one battle, or served 14 day in the war of 1812, is entitled to a pension of $8 per month from approval of act. Widows of such soldiers as have died after similar service, no matter what was the date of marriage to the soldier, are entitled to the same pension. All 1812 pensioners dropped from the rolls because of alleged disloyalty are restored.

RAILROAD STORM.

We clip the following from the Raleigh Journal, a Democratic paper. Read it:

A violent railroad storm has just burst upon the state. We have vainly endeavored up to this hour to account for it. It pertains to the Western N. C. Railroad, which was last year sold to Best and Associates and afterwards passed into the hands of the Richmond & Danville Railroad Company by reason of the "Associates" deserting Best and his inability to carry out the contract with the state. It will be recollected that the sale to Best and Associates originated in Washington City, and that Senator Vance was prominent in the transaction. Senator Vance leads now in the new complication in a newspaper interview, his own son being the interviewer on behalf of the Charlotte Observer. In this interview serious charges are made against Col. A. B. Andrews, representing the Richmond & Danville Road, and Col. A. B. Andrews has made a reply, a copy of which reaches us as we go to press, but too late for this issue. In our next we will give the whole affair regardless of consequences.

By all means let us have the whole of this corruption.

DEATH OF A CENTENARIAN.

A Brief Sketch of a New England Woman Who Was Just as Old as the Nation.

[From an Occasional Correspondent of the Tribune.]

PLYMOUTH, N. H., August 30.—Mrs. Hannah Cox, who died on Sunday, in Holderness, at the age of more than 105 years, was probably the oldest and in many respects one of the most remarkable women in New England. For nearly a century she lived in Holderness, a township separated from this village by the Pemigewasgett river, on an ideal New England farm, adjoining the estate originally owned by Chief-Justice Livermore, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Her father, Isaac Stanton, was a Captain of Connecticut Volunteers in the Revolutionary war. He moved to Holderness at the solicitation of Judge Livermore, and lived to a good old age on the farm upon which his daughter Hannah passed her life. At an early age she became the wife of Robert Cox, who was, next to the Chief-Justice, the most prominent man in that region of country. Mrs. Cox had a wonderful memory, and her accounts of the visits of Governor Chase, of this state, Priest Fowle, as he was familiarly called, the Episcopal clergyman who was known from one end of the state to the other, and of other noted personages, were most interesting. She knows all the Governors for many years of the state; Hawthorne, who died in the old Pemigewasgett Hotel in this place, and Daniel Webster and Starr King, who often called on "Old Lady Cox," as she was known for miles around. In later years it was considered a great privilege by people on their way to the White Mountains to be allowed to visit her. When she was about seventy-five years old her sight and hearing both failed; but fifteen years later she could hear very well, and could see to read coarse print.

Chief Justice Livermore built upon one side of his farm the first Episcopal Church erected in the state. At this Church, in which services are still held, a special service was conducted on the 4th of July, 1876, the 100th anniversary of the birthday of Mrs. Cox. She was present and greeted friends who had driven many miles to meet her. She retained her faculties until near the end, and when she breathed her last at the age of 105 years one month and twenty-two days, she was surrounded by her children, grand-children, great-grand-children, and great-great-grand-children.

The Judge Livermore, mentioned in this interesting sketch, was one of the most ornate members of Congress of his time. He frequently broke lances with John Randolph, of Roanoke. He was as much noted for his judicial witticisms as he was for his eloquence. He lived to a great age in Holderness, on a sort of baronial estate, which was the seat of distinguished hospitality even in his octonegarian days. There are probably some ancient Congressmen in this state who remember this second Tristram Burgess.

WARSAW, N. C., Sept. 1st, 1881.

Editor Post:—

DEAR SIR—I have read your article in the last issue of the POST on Mr. Polk's reunion of the ex-confederate soldiers, and I agree with you that fair week is not the proper time for it, because of the same reasons that you have already given.

Respectfully,
B. L. BLACKMORE,
Ex-Confederate.

The New York Republicans will hold their State Convention on the 5th day of October next, in the city of New York, to nominate state officers.

Personal.

The vaunted success of Jeff. Davis' book over the country is said by knowing ones not to apply to the south.

Senator Beck of Kentucky, who went West to the end of the Canadian Pacific Road, got back with Gen. Rosser on Sunday last, and left Chicago by yesterday morning's train for Washington, having been telegraphed for by Secretary Blaine.

Secretary Kirkwood has notified all the Indian agents in the Indian Territory to keep constantly informed of the movements of Capt. Payne, the famous invader. The Secretary says if Payne and his men enter the Territory he will have them ejected without ceremony.

Senator Hawley's Hartford Courant remarks: "If Mr. Arthur becomes President we shall confidently expect at his hands an administration that will be not factional or sectional, but national in the best sense—such an administration as the country would have had if President Garfield's life had been spared. Even if he were not constrained to this course by right feeling and patriotism, an enlightened selfishness alone would dictate it to him."

STATE NEWS.

North State: Colonel McMahon of Greensboro, is building one of the most complete establishments of brick, and is doing an immense business.——New Garden Fair will be held at that place on the 27th of October. It is driven into one day on account of the drought in that region.

Union Republican (Salem): Mr. Robert Belo, of Raleigh, and his brother, Dr. Arthur Belo of Texas, are visiting relatives here.——Dr. Joseph Kinyon of Missouri, a son of Dr. Kinyon, formerly of Yadkin county is on a visit to relatives here.——The North Carolina Sunday School Association, was held at the Moravian Church at Salem on the 1st and 2d of September. Such eminent gentlemen as Kemp P. Battle, of the University, and E. Payson Parker of Philadelphia, were present.

The North Carolinian: On reading in our state exchanges the accounts of the several Normal Schools recently held, we feel confident that they have awakened an increased interest in the cause of popular education. And this is what is wanted. North Carolina has always been very backward in sustaining public schools. It is encouraging to know that a more healthy public sentiment on this subject is rapidly growing. —John Benbury, who has just completed the school census of Elizabeth City, informs us that there are of whites between the age of six and twenty-one—males, 189, females, 183; colored—males, 213, females, 251, making 372 whites and 469 colored.

Warrenton Gazette: Mr. John E. Boyd sends us a stalk of corn with six well developed ears. This does not look much like starvation. But alas! many of the stalks in this county will not make a "nubbin."——The colored people are much alarmed, and many of them confidently expect Judgment Day in the near future. Their Ministers are preaching it to them, and tell them the drouth is an unmistakable sign of it. Bob Gilliland, of the River, tells us that in his section many of the hands have quit work dressed up in their best and go to preaching every day.——In the election on prohibition, Cherokee county gave 8 majority for prohibition, Clay 16, Transylvania 28, Yancey 173. These four counties polled only 2,077 votes.——Eighteen twenty-six is known as the dry year in this community. That year, the old people tell us there was nothing made except in the bottoms. It will be so here this year, but we have so much better railroad facilities than our ancestors had, we are better off than they. But then, in 1826, such a thing as a mortgage to a merchant, or to anyone else, was scarcely ever heard of. Then the farmers "carried" the merchants, now the reverse is too often the case. Even sad experience teaches many of us but little, if anything.

All subscribers to the POST not receiving the same regularly, will please report the same to Mr. W. E. Sellers of at this office.

Col. L. E. Rice has been quite sick at his residence in this city for a week past. We hope him an immediate recovery and long life. He is too useful a man to give up.

The latest reports from the peanut farmers in this section indicates that the crop has been very much injured, and the present probabilities are that not more than half the usual number of bushels will be made. The prices therefore will be very much better than last year.

If you want to be well advised, subscribe for the POST.

CITY ITEMS.

The rice crop is being harvested.

The last of the summer months has stepped down and out.

It is said the cattle ordinance will be rigidly enforced from now until 1st of April next.

The chicken trade between Wilmington and western North Carolina is rapidly increasing.

Mr. Daniel Shaw, of Pender, has been appointed a Commissioner to the Atlanta Exposition.

The monument to the lamented Ellerbrock has been placed in position in Oakdale Cemetery.

The Teachers' Home, on Nun between 6th and 7th streets, is fast approaching completion.

The County Commissioners will hold their regular monthly meeting to-morrow afternoon at 2 30 o'clock.

There was an excursion from this city to Newbern on Monday last, under the management of Mr. I. B. Abbott.

Mr. C. E. Taylor, the Chief Inspector in the Custom House, is on a visit to his friends at his old home in Maine.

A camp meeting under the auspices of the Methodist Church is in progress near Meares Bluff, Elder T. H. Hogan in charge, and the good accomplished is very great.

The copper cap and arm of ex-Sheriff Paddison's turpentine distillery at Burgaw, were stolen last Thursday night. There is no clue, but it is thought the thieves headed for this city.

The Board of Aldermen meet in regular monthly session to morrow, the 5th instant, when business of considerable imporsance is likely to come up for the Board's consideration.

Isaiah Easton and J. F. Gilmore, two colored boys, engaged in a little fight on Wednesday. Easton whipped out a sheath knife and cut his antagonist severely on the arm and wrist. Easton was arrested.

A water spout, ranging from thirty to forty feet high, passed over Wrightsville sound on Sunday last. Captain Joseph Price's yacht, the Bonnie Lassie, was picked up and carried some distance by it, and boat houses were injured by the spout

Gen. Jos. C. Abbott returned to this city a few days ago from Beaufort, where he has been with his family rusticating for a month. He looks much improved, the Beaufort air agrees with him. He speaks highly of the people of that old town. We expect he will go again.

MARINE HOSPITAL AGAIN.—Dr. Fairfax Irvin, the surgeon in charge of the Marine Hospital, reports that he has twenty-five patients in his establishment, and is preparing the building for more. He will be able to accommodate all that may apply.

Who will join first in a call for a citizens meeting for the purpose of getting up a railroad to Greenville near Federal Point? Don't all speak at once gentlemen, but the road will be constructed and it will be a creditable monument to the men who will get up the stock and build it.

The call for a meeting of the Republican Executive Committee of the state will be found in this issue of the POST. The meeting is to be held on the 15th of Sept. Dr. Mott has performed a patriotic service in making this early call of the committee. We hope that every member will be present.

On Tuesday last the body of a drowned man, supposed to be a sailor, was found floating in the river near Alligator creek, the body was tied to a tree and coroner notified. On Wednesday Mr. Hewkitt repaired to the place where the body had been tied, but could see no sign of it. The rope was still tied to the tree. The person who picked the body up states that there was a pistol shot wound in the man's neck, and that the body was gashed in several places. There is no clue as to who the man is. Foul play is suspected.

DEATH OF MAJ. POISSON.—Major F. D. Poisson died at his residence in this city on last Monday morning. He died from the effects of a stroke of paralysis. He was in the prime of life, and was a lawyer and had but few if any superiors in the branch of the profession which he practiced. Major Poisson was born in Wilmington on the 10th day of April, 1836, and was consequently in the 46th year of his age. ago. He graduated with honor at Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut, in 1855, and received his license to practice in 1857.

The engines, boilers and smoke stack for the Clarendon Water Works have arrived, and other machinery necessary for the completion of the works is expected on the next New York steamer.

WATER WORKS COMPANY.—We suppose we shall soon see the hands putting down the balance of the pipes for the Water Works. The Company has been idle for some time owing to the warm weather, but now it is cooler the work will probably soon start up again.

We have received a communication from Enoch Easter, in which he transmits a resolution passed by the Snow Hill Church, exhonorating Elder D. McKay from certain charges that had been made against him. The case was also tried by a justice of the peace and the man who preferred the charges had to pay all cost, etc. The communication is too long for publication.

Old John Robinson's corps of billposters arrived in this city yesterday morning and proceeded immediately to put up a fine stand of bills. Robinson's circus is said to be second to no canvass show on the road, and Mr. Robinson guarantees a fine entertainment, comfortable seats and polite attention. Look out for the advertisement of this circus in our next issue.

CONVENTION.—The Odd Fellows are going to have a big time of it at their next convocation. Says their announcement: "The Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows meets on September 19th, in annual convocation, in Cincinnati, Ohio. Many prominent members of the order from the different states will be present. There is to be erected a splendid monument to Odd Fellowship by the Odd Fellows of Ohio, and this occasion will be one of the greatest gatherings ever known in the history of American Odd Fellowship. Much interesting legislation will be had to perfect and harmonize the new rituals of the new lodges and encampments.

The following is a statement of foreign exports from the port of Wilmington for the month of August just closed, as compiled from the books at the Custom House in this city:

Rosin and Crude turpentine—17,461 barrels, valued at $39,787.

Spirits Turpentine—470,884, gallons, valued at $192,225.

Lumber—522,000 feet, valued at $10,256.

Shingles—238,000, valued at $1,453.

Total value of exports on American vessels, $5,247; on foreign vessels $238,474. Total foreign exports for the month, $243,721.

The total receipts of cotton at the port of Wilmington for the crop year ending August 31st footed up 119,522 bales, as against 78,788 bales for the corresponding period last year.

The exports for the crop year ending August 31st footed up 119,762 bales, of which 49,952 bales were shipped to domestic ports and 69,810 bales to foreign ports; as against 78,348 bales for the crop year ending August 31st, 1880, of which 41,762 bales were shipped to domestic and 36,586 bales to foreign ports.

The result shows an increase in receipts of 40,467 bales over last crop year, and a total increase in exports of 41,414 bales, of which 8,190 bales were shipped coastwise and 33,224 foreign.

RALEIGH TRAIN.—The train that leaves here at 5:30 o'clock on the C. C. Railroad, reaches Raleigh, by way of Hamlet, the next morning at 8 o'clock. Now, we desire to recommend to Col. F. W. Clark, the efficient General-Passenger Agent of this line, and the other authorities of the C. C, and the R. and A. Air Railroads, to put a sleeper on this line, should they do so we believe that nine-tenths of the travel will go that way. If a person has business in Raleigh, he can save just two days by going by via. of Hamlet. He arrives in Raleigh at 8 o'clock in the morning, and can leave for Wilmington at 8 o'clock that evening. On the other line via. Goldsboro, you leave at 6:30 o'clock in the morning and arrived at Raleigh at 4 p. m., take the next day for business and leave the next day noon for home, and reach Wilmington at 9:30 o'clock that night, losing three days to attend to a few hours of business. We hope that Col. Clark will study the comfort as well as the interest of our business men.

IMPROVEMENTS IN WILMINGTON.—There are many very handsome improvements going on in Wilmington, in the shape of fine dwellings, stores and other buildings:

Mr. John Turrentine has just finished a very handsome residence on Market between Eighth and Ninth streets; Mr. John C. Heyer is having a very large and expensive dwelling erected on the corner of Fourth and Red Cross. We believe it will be the largest in the city.

Mr. Jos. Taylor is putting up a beautiful house on Walnut and Front streets, which will add very much to the looks of that neighborhood. Messrs. Brown & Roddick, those enterprising dry-goods merchants, who have been so long celebrated for quick sales and small profits, have leased the store on Front street near Market, and have added to the building by constructing an ell off to the north, about 50 feet to the Purcell alley. This store, when completed, will be one of the largest and most convenient business houses in the city. The old Vick & Mebane office has been handsomely renovated and will be occupied by Mr. E. B. Dixon, a gentleman lately moved to the city, from Greenville, South Carolina, who will deal very largely in cotton. The Opera House, under the superintendence of the lessee, Captain E. J. Pennypacker, has been entirely overhauled, repaired and refitted. There is no man who has done the half for that establishment that this gentleman has. When he first took hold of the Theatre it was more like an idle and long neglected barn, than a Theatre or Opera House. He has been making constant improvements until now it is one of the very best in the south. Mr. Honnett has commenced a new residence on Front and Nun streets.—Northern capital is having an exceedingly handsome and commodious dwelling put up for Rev. D. D. Dodge, on Nun between Sixth and Seventh streets. Mr. Samuel Northrop has just completed a dwelling on Dock street between Fifth and Sixth, which is almost the same as new. Messrs. Brundhill & Bros., have just completed their tobacco and cigar factory; the building is near the railroad, and located at a convenient distance from their wholesale liquor establishment. They are prepared to, and probably do the largest liquor and tobacco business of any firm in the state. Messrs. Dyer & Son, clothiers, have leased the store, corner Front and Princess streets, and it is now being thoroughly overhauled and made ready for occupation by the above firm on the first of October. Front and Dock streets has been very substantially improved by the erection of a large ice house and store—the building is near 120 feet long, and three stories high. Mr. B. H. J. Ahrens, the owner of this splendid property proposes carrying on the ice business. Mr. George R. French, is having the second and third stories of the old Commercial Bank put in first class order; he has leased the property to Mr. Benjamin L. Perry, proprietor of the Purcell House. Mr. McRary has just completed a dwelling, which is for rent, on the Nun and Fifth streets—it is a very excellent and convenient building.—Messrs. Williams & Murchison's office on water street, next door to the Custom House, is being overhauled and rearranged to suit the extensive business done by that firm. Mr. Elvin Artis will soon complete a small dwelling near the corner of Fourth and Red Cross streets. The Wilmington and Weldon railroad has just completed a very large and elegantly arranged round house at their depot in this city. Mr. J. W. Gerdts is now constructing a building on Fourth between Brunswick and Bladen streets, to be used as a store. A small dwelling is now being erected on 8th street by Joshua Slone. Also D. Oliver is having a very nice little residence put up on Nixon street. The dwelling which is in course of erection on 7th between Red Cross and Walnut streets will be the residence of Mrs. Ashe Council. The First Baptist Church (colored) on the corner of 5th and Campbell streets has been, or is being thoroughly overhauled and put in splendid condition. Mr. King has just completed a new dwelling on Wooster between 8th and 9th streets. Mr. Scerlock is also constructing a handsome residence on Wooster street. Our friend, D. Steljes, Esq., has had built a very elegant two story residence on 5th near Ann street—one of the handsomest dwellings in that neighborhood.—Mr. Rhue has a new building going up on Queen between 5th and 6th streets, intended for a dwelling. The Fifth Street Methodist Church is now building a parsonage; Rev. Mr. Rieand, the pastor, has, by hard and energetic work, succeeded in raising the money to put up the building. The congregation of Fifth Street Church is certainly to be congratulated on the fact of having a minister of so much ability; we hope they may be able to keep him as long as he desires to remain. The dwelling which has just been erected on 4th between Ann and Nunn streets belongs to Mr. Blocker.

The above are only part of the improvements, we will continue the list in our next. Wilmington is certainly improving very rapidly. The amount of new buildings compare very favorably with 1872, when there were about 500 dwellings erected in the city.

THE WILMINGTON POST.

W. P. CANADAY, Proprietor.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, SEPT. 4, 1881.

At Port Royal, S. C., Seven bodies were found after a storm, and more than forty in all.

A terrific hurricane at Augusta, in which the wind blew 80 miles an hour, blew off the roof of the News, tore up the parks, and killed many women and children.

Minister Zamacona tells a reporter that General Grant is so popular in Mexico that the people there would be glad to have him reside permanently in their midst. He says also, that Grant's railroad scheme is favorably regarded.

The Best railroad steal of the Western N. C. Railroad through the corruption of some of the state officials, don't seem to bring the fruits to the Democratic party that was expected, and the leaders are not a very happy family at this time. It is to be hoped that the thievs will fall out so honest men can get their dues.

Senator Beck of Kentucky has been telegraphed by Secretary Blaine asking him to visit Washington, on account of having said in an interview that in case of the death of President Garfield:

"It would be a time when the love of country should rise above all party questions. As to my own course I should be in favor of some conservative Republican, say Henry B. Anthony, of Rhode Island, for the position of president pro tem. of the Senate, and thus avoid any inducement for any insane person or political fanatic to desire the death of Mr. Arthur. In such a contingency this would be a graceful recognition of the fact that under the great calamity which had befallen the nation the intensity of party spirit and the eagerness for spoils were for the time forgotten.

Of Major Daniel, the Bourbon candidate for Governor of Virginia, the Greensboro' (N. C.) North State says that he "is the same man who made a speech in the Court House in Greensboro' last year, and advised the young ladies to ostracize all young Republicans. He said: "Don't go to Church with them; don't walk on the street with them; don't go riding with them; do not be seen in any public place with them; they are not fit associates for you." It looks now as if this Daniel will come to judgment, and that the Readjuster lions and black bears will make a meal of him.

The above is the teachings of such men as Senator Vance, Wade Hampton and other extreme men of the Democratic party. But their days are numbered, and they will soon be laid aside for young progressive men who live and act for to-day and not for the past.

Whatever Hon. W. E. Chandler says is of interest to the country. He is one of the big men of the day. Whenever he speaks he says something. And it will be well for the Democratic press to consider well what he does say. If they continue to abuse him they will certainly make him President. We publish an extract from a letter from W. E. Chandler to Senator Mahone, of Virginia, below, which is certainly interesting.

"I trust the united assault of the friends of a free ballot, universal education, and state and national progress upon the intolerant, prospective, reactionary, negro-hating ignorance-loving and ballot-box-stuffing Democracy of the Old Dominion will go forward harmoniously and successfully. I do not know in what particular method the co-operation of the Republicans with the free Democrats is being worked out, but I hope it is progressing on terms honorable to both the allied armies. The manly, noble and courageous fight made by you and your associates for independence of political thought and action has aroused almost universal admiration and friendship outside the state of Virginia; and the Republicans there shall in the appropriate method throw their whole strength forward to the support of your gallant band of progressive Democrats."

THE CAPE FEAR RIVER.

How about the appropriation to buy out the interest in the Cape Fear river? We have heard nothing of it lately. And the improvements of the river by dredging, &c., there is an appropriation for that also. We suppose the work will soon be commenced, or ought to be. The Republican candidate in this district for Congress last year made such a bitter war upon the Cape Fear river monopoly, that Senator Ransom and a Democratic Congress finally granted what should have been done ten years ago, an appropriation to purchase the Company's rights if they had any in the river, and money to improve and make the river navigable to Fayetteville. Now we advise the people not to stop, but continue their demands and get another appropriation to improve the river above Fayetteville, say as far up as Prosperity, in Moore county. The people along the river should hold meetings and get up petitions for this needed improvement, and forward them to their Senator, General M. W. Ransom, who serves the wishes and interests of his constituents with very great delight at all times. This matter should be attended to at once, so as to be in time for Congress.

We hope the money appropriated will not be squandered on the upper Cape Fear as it has on the lower Cape Fear on the river below Wilmington.

THE IMPROVEMENT IN THE PRESIDENT.

The developements in the case of the President, have within a few days assumed most unexpected and remarkable aspects. From a depression that foreboded nothing but gloom and disaster and fatality, he emerged into the light of hopefulness and bouyancy and confident expectation, that spread a halo of joy over a Nation. Hearts which had struggled in devoted implorations for the relief of the illustrious sufferer—and the consolidated heart of the earnest and fervent and strenuous Nation—in fresh thankfulness leaped into that unutterable speechlessness of gratulation, which was as extatic as it was angelic.

There was a loftiness of grandeur in all the blackness of gloomy hopelessness and during the deepest apprehension, in the godlike courage in which the royal patient met his suffering. And when the flooding light of returning vigor burst upon his vision, there was the serenity of the ineffable beatitudes which crowned his regal crest. One wide-sweep of tender regard, fell around the august sufferer, like the gentle dews of heaven. The passions of party strife were transmuted to sympathy, and the bitterness of political antagonisms were changed to veneration and love, and the martyrdom of vicarious suffering breathed from all the people.

PARTY SUCCESS.

Some of the Democratic journals look upon prohibition as a scheme originally gotten up by Republicans to distract and disintegrate the Democratic party. We wish this and some direful prognostications floating about were true. To us the political outlook is anything but cheerful to the Republicans, either in this state or the nation. Prohibition has brought us much discord to the Republican ranks as to the Democratic. Leading Republicans favor it, and the fact that they rebel against what is claimed to be the action of the Republican State Committee, shows a breach in our party which cannot well be healed. Among the prohibition leaders are Republicans who were at the birth of the party, and who nourished and protected it in the dark days of reconstruction and ku-klux rule, when many of the loud-mouthed would-be leaders of to-day were seeking its life. We look with great concern on any circumstance which place in hostile position such men as Judges Reade, Dick, Russell, Henry, Seymour, Buxton, Major Smith, Gov. Holden, David A. Jenkins, Mr. Ball, Sheriff Manning, Congressman Hubbs, Col. Ike Young, Judge W. A. Moore and many others. When these fathers of the party see fit to denounce our organization, we think the end has come. Without them and their aid our party in this state will be buried out of sight. The time has come for reasonable discussion about the dangers which beset us. The Federal patronage in North Carolina is now for the most part distributed in such a manner as to weaken and destroy our strength. The course of this administration in regard to patronage in this state so far may be safely said to have cost us 10,000 votes. The "cohesive power of public plunder," and the morbid desire to hold office, has brought us to the brink of destruction. We have in our state many as desperate as Guiteau on the office question. They think of nothing except office, and what influence money may bring. To secure position they will libel, slander, defraud, or do anything to accomplish their puposes. Such a state of affairs can only end in the destruction of the Republican party.—North State.

In the first place, who are the most of these "loud mouthed, would-be leaders that were seeking the life of the Republican party in the dark days?" In the second place, all the names mentioned above have long since left the Republican party, or signified their intention of doing so. In the third place, Young and Moore were openly against the Prohibition bill, and Hubbs and Manning were too loyal to their party to fight against the advice of the State Committee. There is no division in the Republican party. We do not deny that there are a few who have been working for years for an excuse to leave the party, and God grant this prohibition question may furnish them sufficient grounds for doing so and the Republican party will gain fifty votes for every one of them who may depart its fold.

The patronage that the above article complains of, we are sorry to state, which we are compelled to do, and defy contradiction, that nine out of every ten federal official to-day holding office were appointed, or kept in office during the time that the editor and proprietor of the North State held the dictatorship of the Republican party. But since this would-be leader finds that he cannot control, he is determined to ruin and wreck the noble old Republican ship of state, which we are pleased to say, he and all his sore-head associates of the state can not do. The Republican party of the state was never stronger than it is at this time, and those who brought the splendid craft out of the breakers, where they found her while under the command of the editor of the North State, know well how to keep her sailing, and will in 1884 bring her into the harbor of safety with a Republican victory of at least 25,000 majority.

At Newport, Rhode Island, Lts. Eden and Spaulding, of the Navy were engaged in sinking torpedoes for harbor defence they exploded, killing both of them instantly. Lt. Eden was born in Maryland and Lt. Spaulding in New Hampshire.

OUTRAGE UPON THE COLORED PEOPLE.

Atlanta, Ga., has a test case of extreme delicacy on her hands. Some time ago the Police Commissioners ordered the arrest of colored people who entered the City Hall Park. Wesley Redding, a young colored man, was arrested, put on trial, and was discharged. Later he was driven from the park by the police, who declared that they had orders to drive all negroes out. Redding now brings suit, under the civil rights bill, against the city for $20,000 damages. The first count holds the city liable for damages directly under the civil rights law. The second count holds the city liable because of the trespass and detention of person and restraint of liberty, of which he was deprived, by reason of his race and color. The third and last count holds the city liable because the city failed to protect him in his rights, privileges, and immunities, under the laws of the United States; instead thereof oppressed him and denied him said rights. The case will be pushed by a prominent Democratic lawyer, and there is much excitement among the Bourbons in Atlanta.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

We have not seen the above floating around among our Democratic exchanges as the appointment of four colored policemen of Philadelphia did. In this case the whole colored race of Atlanta, Ga., are excluded from the public park on account of their color. A young colored man of character attempts to enter the park, is arrested, thrown in jail for days, and when tried it was found that he had violated no law, was released; when he makes the second attempt to enjoy the rights of a citizen he is beaten and forced from the park. Now he resorts to the courts, where we hope the city of Atlanta will be compelled to pay the amount sued for.—Such outrages should not be longer tolerated in a country that claims to be civilized.

Will our Democratic papers come out and condemn this infamous conduct on the part of the Atlanta authorities, or will they endorse it? If they believe what they have been praising in the Philadelphia Mayor, why, then they will stand by the colored people in this fight.

THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE.

The editorial below, from the N. Y. Times concerning Mrs. Garfield, is so exceedingly just that we publish it in full. Here it is:

When Gen. Garfield attained the exalted station of the chief magistracy of this Republic, the record of his life was familiar to the people as that of few of his predecessors had been. He was a "divinely gifted man," who had battled his way upward from a low estate until he had become

——"on fortune's crowning slope
The pillar of a people's hope,
The centre of a world's desire."

The struggles through which he had passed, the successes which he had won in making "by force his merit known," had made his career one of special interest to all classes. He had long filled a large place in the public view, and his varied experience in political life enabled him to bear himself among the leading men of the Nation with as much confidence as if he had been born with all the advantages of the most favored. But little was known of the lady whom he was to bring to grace the Presidential mansion with her presence. She had been heard of only as the wife and mother of an unpretending Ohio home. Washington society has seen nothing of her. There may have been misgivings as to the figure she would cut presiding over the stately hospitalities of the White House and associating with the showy matrons of the official circle at the capital. In her youthful days she had been a school teacher, and the sturdy man who chose her for a life companion had followed the same occupation in the course of his upward progress. It was in that field, where so many of the best qualities of American character are enlisted, that they were brought together.

Mrs. Garfield's married life had been in the strictest sense a home life, devoted wholly to the duties and ministrations of the family circle. It may easily be imagined that she looked forward with a sort of dread to the social requirements of her new position at the capital. Perhaps she was not born to shine in society, perhaps she had no taste for its pageantry or its pleasures, and it may be that she would never have acquitted herself with special brilliancy either as the head of an official household or as the central figure in the shows and festivities of the "season" at Washington. But a greater distinction than any of these awaited the devoted wife and mother. Her first days in her new home had been spent in sickness, aggravated, no doubt, by apprehension arising out of the exigencies of her position, and she had by no means recovered her strength when the great calamity of July 2 fell upon her and upon the nation. Then came the great test of womanly character, and the qualities that are developed in the ministrations of home life rose into sublimity. Nothing has ever touched the heart of the nation with such an exalting influence as the tender solicitude of the strong man stricken down for the wife to whom the blow would be severer than to him, and the heroic fortitude and devotion with which this "gentlest of gentle womankind" bore the shock and addressed herself to the duties which it brought.

In these few weeks of trial and anxiety Mrs. Garfield has achieved a distinction grander and more lasting than ever before fell to the lot of a President's wife. It has won recognition the world over and brought words of sympathy from the Queen of the proudest realm in Christendom. But the great trial of that household and the dark shadow of possible bereavement and sorrow abolished the petty distinctions of this world's pomp and grandeur. The patient heroism, the cheerful self-sacrifice, the unfaltering devotion of the wife by the bed side of her suffering husband, were more than birth or fortune or queenly robes. What in comparison were the most brilliant triumphs of the hostess at feasts of state or of the leader in the parades of fashionable society! If, in answer to the united prayers of a nation, this gloom that overhangs the historic mansion at the capital should yet break away and the heavens shine again with hope and joy for that faithful heart, the fame of Mrs. Garfield would be all-sufficient. She would not need to heed the demands of an exalted social position unless she saw fit. She would be secure in the esteem and the tender regard of the whole people, who care more after all for the simple virtues and the sweet influences of home than for all the shows and pretensions of society. And if the dread alternative of the heroic sufferer's death must be faced, if the bitter cup is not to pass from the quivering lip that would fain put it away, in the darkness of her widowhood she may find some cheer in the affectionate regard of a great people and the consciousness that her example of faithful devotion will exert a purifying influence in millions of households.

VIRGINIA POLITICS.

We publish below extracts from leading papers of the country concerning the situation in the politics of Virginia, which are very interesting:

The great body of the party indorse the action of Virginia Republicans in standing by the Readjusters' ticket. It is the only hope for the party in that state. Even Harper's Weekly falls into line with the declaration that "the issue in Virginia is clearly between the coalition and Bourbonism." The frantic outcries of the Bourbon leaders that they are the honest debt-paying party will have small weight with people who have studied their repudiation methods during the last fifteen years.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

BLAINE AND MAHONE.

In the recent controversy among the Virginia Republicans as to the expediency of helping Mahone to break the Bourbon domination in that state, Mr. Blaine, while making no secret of his sympathy with the liberal and progressive element, which favors the free ballot and the free school, so rigidly abstained from exerting any pressure upon those whom it was thought he could influence that each side complained bitterly either of his inaction or of the favor he was extending to the other.—New York Tribune.

DEZENDORF AGAINST DEZENDORF.

In May last the Hon. John F. Dezendorf, Republican member of Congress from the Norfolk (Va.) District, addressed to the National Republican a letter, which appeared in our issue of May 4. It discussed Virginia politics, strongly urged that a Readjuster convention be held, and that the ticket therein nominated be indorsed by the Republicans in a state convention of their own. He believed most fully in coalation, but not in amalgamation.—Let us make this plain. Gen. Mahone favored a single anti-Bourbon state convention, the delegates to which should be chosen by all voters, without regard to previous party affiliations, who were opposed to the Bourbon Funder party. This he called amalgamating all the anti-Bourbon elements. This was opposed by some Republicans, who favored coalition but not amalgamation. They wanted a Republican state convention to be held and indorse the Readjusters. The reason given by them was that it was necessary to have a state convention of the Republican party in order to keep up the party organization.—National Republican.

Gen. Wickham's name has long been conspicuous among the Virginia Republicans. In the whole south there was no leader of that party who had so many claims to public respect. It is an astonishing spectacle in American politics, the present coalition between Mahone and the Virginia Republicans on a platform of repudiation. Seduced by Mahone and by the promise of patronage from Washington, they have have concluded to follow the bargain of the Republican Senators with the repudiator by making one of their own. The movement has broken up the Republican party in the state—"wiped it out," is the expressive language in some quarters. And now Gen. Wickham has declared for the debt-paying ticket. It is singular that northern Republicans can calmly urge Virginia Republicans to do that which were it done by them in New York or Pennsylvania, would result in the destruction of the party.—N. Y. Sun, Ind. Dem.

S. H. Richardson & Co., and Gilbert & Brega, commission merchants of Chicago, have made a thorough inquiry into the condition of the cotton crop. They have received advices from about sixty correspondents at different points in the south. From the data at his command, Mr. Richardson estimates that the entire crop of 1881 will not exceed 5,000,000 bales, or 1,500,000 bales below that of last year. In this he is sustained by the views of cotton experts in the producing regions, though the Mobile Board of Trade estimates the yield at 6,000,000 bales.

While the steamer Granite State was at her pier last Monday night, Joseph Stevenson, of No. 291 Seventh street, came on board anxiously inquiring after his son Louis, age twelve. Mr. Stevenson said that his son had been put on the State of New York at Hartford and was alone. He was to meet his son at the pier on the arrival of the steamer. Mr. Stevenson made many inquiries while the Tribune reporter was on board the vessel, but did not learn anything of the boy.

"Goth" has been shaved by a pretty woman barber at Binghamton, and describes the sensation as delicious and electric. Her husband taught her, and when he died she became heir to his business, and is doing well.

It is believed that the late George W. Riggs, the Washington baker, left a large sum of money, perhaps $2,000,000 to found a charitable institution.

LETTER FROM BEAUFORT.

A NEW ERA—THE FUTURE OF BEAUFORT NORTH CAROLINA—MONSTROUS DREAMS OF THE FUTURE.

BEAUFORT, N. C., August 30, '81.

To the Editor of the Post:

The close of the season is approaching at this delightful summer resort, and day by day numbers are leaving; and from the resort of fashion at the great caravansary at Morehead, kept by Dr. Blacknell of the Yarboro, there are desertions until not much more than a baker's dozen are left, where was beauty and gaiety ten days ago, and official dignity, and honor, where are empty benches, and vacant dining rooms, and deserted halls and salons now.

Beaufort has kept up its reputation this year, as of old, for its hospitality and social charms. Besides the guests from North Carolina, there are the fair women and brave men from nearly every southern state, and many northern states, and Europe. There are numerous houses of entertainment on these classic shores, and scenes of fashion on these dancing waters, and among these emerald islands. The houses of Miss Sarah A. Davis, connected by corridors, are the scenes of comfort and enjoyment, and social courtesies rarely seen on these blue waters, since that sad disaster which dashed so many living spirits, now no more,

Rarely is there spread out before eyes, on the Atlantic coast, a view so varied by landscape and sea, by deep-rolling ocean, by ancient fortresses, by modern piles of tasteful architecture, as is seen from the impending shores of Beaufort, and their broad piazzas.—Vessels coming in and going out, yachts, sail boats and "sharpees," as a very sharp-pointed bowed and blunt-sterned craft is called, are see-sawing across each other's paths, and making a picture of variety rarely equalled.

As the yacht Rosalie, Capt. Johnson, was proceeding from Beaufort to Cape Lookout, on one Wednesday, August 18th, loaded with a pleasure party to the number of twenty-five or thirty ladies, gentlemen and children, including John Shackelford, late Democratic candidate for Congress for the Third North Carolina District, were making their way, they were seized by the breakers and driven ashore about two miles distant from Cape Lookout Light House, and landed with great difficulty and some disaster. Boats were promptly sent from Beaufort to the scene of the disaster, and the party rescued, arrived at Beaufort better if not wiser people. Among the party on board were Hon. John Shackelford and wife, and his wife's mother.

The sloop Nellie Neff, formerly built for the pilot service has been repaired by Mr. Ives the owner, and now lies on the ways ready for launching at Beaufort. She is a gay craft, repainted and recast for the fishing service. Its owner claims for it great speed and safety. She will be remembered years ago when she was built by Capt. Ben. Berry for the pilot service when it required more than 60 sails at the port of Wilmington. There is a new and peculiar kind of yacht common in Beaufort called "Sharpee," much used for fishing purposes and for pleasure. You see them everywhere cutting here and there and venturing far out into the blue water.

Beaufort and Morehead have now in prospect a new destiny. It is claimed to be in the future the Newport of the south. It has certainly made a promising beginning. The Atlantic House, a gigantic and fashionable caravansary, is one of the finest and best kept in the south, under Dr. Blacknall. It is said that Best, that marvelous wizard of enterprise, is going to build another next year. Preparations are also going on in old Beaufort to adorn and beautify it and make it a rival in loveliness to anything in that enchanting region. In this new era ahead of them, these sanguine people anticipate a halcyon hegira of the denizens of the mountains in the sweet and fascinating summers of the sunny south, which will rival the visionary haunts of Vallambrosa, and the delightful breezes of the Jersey coast, and the weird vales of the Appenines. A.

The meeting, at which on Saturday, Mr. Murphy, the American temperance lecturer was welcomed to London, was opened by the Rev. Mr. Harris, of New Jersey, with prayers, and Dr. Daniells of Chicago, gave an address. He alluded to the mighty wave of temperance that had swept over the United States, and said that Mr. Murphy had come to England with the benedictions of the wounded President and of ex-President Hayes.

The United States revenue bark S. P. Chase arrived at Gardiner's Bay, Long Island, Friday evening, Aug. 26, twenty days from Fayal, Azores Islands. Officers and crew well. Capt. Henriques, commanding, reports that the passage was the most severe one the vessel has ever made, particularly in the Gulf Stream, where rough weather and terrific squalls of wind and rain and lightning were encountered.

It is alleged that Secretary Burch, of the Senate, has stopped all the New England newspapers which were kept on file for the benefit of Senators, and replaced them with southern journals.

HENDERSON COUNTY, N. C., August 30th, 1881.

DEAR POST:—It is very comfortable up here. This county is an anomoly in state politics and is something remarkable also in being situated in the "Land of the Sky!" In politics a majority of the people (the good ladies come in for an especial "God bless them") are Republican. There is a majority of Republicans among the white people as well as the colored. I have been informed by the Sheriff that if all the colored people should vote with the Democrats that even then the white Republicans would carry the county, but the colored man can no more be induced to do this than can the stars be induced to shut out their smiles from the mountain tops here which reach up heavenward to greet them at each evening tide. This is a lovely land and it is strange indeed that anybody in North Carolina would go elsewhere to enjoy a summer vacation. Tables are supplied with finest beef and mutton, ice-cold butter and milk, and fowls are plenty all around. Scenery any sunsets among the Alps or on the world anywhere, are as fine here. The people are noble-hearted, frank and cheerful, in every sense it is truly a Land of the Sky.

Now that the railroads are pushing through the mountains it will not be long before the eastern or "low country people" as they call us will become more familiar with the magnificent, grand and lovely country which for so long a time has been unknown to us, but which surpasses our dreams of the mountain land. I can hardly perceive that this really is a part of old North Carolina—it feels like a new acquisition or a borrowed view from somewhere outside "the strip of land between two states." Wonder who first said that? I would just like to show him the South Carolinians, the Georgians, the Texans and the Virginians who, refugees from their homes, are here all over the mountains by the thousand. Why here in Hendersonville I am stopping at the "best" hotel kept by a Virginian, and he calls it the "Virginia House" on a sign board with letters two feet long, and every southern state is represented among the guests. The North Carolinians are at home anywhere, and usually stop in the country for a while among the farm houses and go on from one hospitable entertainment to another, but the "Southerners" as they are called, who came from the other states are willing to settle anywhere and stay all summer, for it is pleasant anywhere, even in a hotel up here. I will not enumerate the curiosities nor attempt description—no, you don't get me there! If the best describing artist in the world should attempt to picture this country on paper, with pen or camera, he would make a fool of himself. Why just think of it; I took a steamboat ride the other day on the French Broad, a river 3,000 feet above Front street in Wilmington—a river in the sky! Capt. Sam Skinner would laugh at the boat, but he would brighten his smiles when he thought of the fact that this is, so far as the old Cape Fear is concerned, aerial navigation (without a "Navigation Company" embargo). The little steamer is just built, and is 65 feet keel, 20 feet beam, side-wheel, two engines and draws 16 inches. The tonnage cannot be over 30 tons, but I did not ascertain the fact. The steamer Mountain Lilly, runs, or will as soon as it rains, from Brevard in Transylvania county to Hendersonville Landing six miles west of the town, and on fifteen miles below Hendersonville to near the falls of the French Broad. A steamer is built and is running on top of the mountain! The boat is only 65 feet long because it could not be turned around in the mountain creek called French Broad if longer. The U. S. Government has expended fifty-five thousand dollars blasting bed rock from the stream to allow the Mountain Lilly a passage over the distance mentioned. But my letter is too long. I quit the writing but not the thoughts and pleasures in my mind with the realities around me.

Yours, CAPE FEAR.

Since the Attorney-General decided that the Weather Bureau was an army all by itself, Gen. Hazen has grown several degrees handsomer.

A Soft Answer.

"Any letters for me?" asked a young lady of a postmistress in a country town.

"No," was the reply.

"Strange," said the young lady aloud to herself, as she turned away.

"Nothing strange about it," cried the postmistress through the delivery window; "you ain't answered the last letter he writ ye."

Sad.

"I've just got back from Houston, and it was a very sad trip to me."

"Your mother died?"

"Worse than that."

"Father and mother both died?"

"It's worse than all that. The conductor lock up the pass I borrowed, and collected fare."

"Come here, McDonald!"

Lord Lorne, in mentioning the mixture of races in Canada, says that when he first expressed a wish to see a real, full-blooded Indian he was rather astonished when the Canadian who at once undertook to gratify the wish, summoned the required real specimen of the aboriginal race by shouting, "Come here McDonald!"

THE WILMINGTON POST.

WILMINGTON, N. C.,

SUNDAY MORNING, SEPT 4, 1881

GUITEAU'S PISTOL.

THE POLICE AUTHORITIES WANT IT.

They Contend That District-Attorney Corkhill Had No Right to Take It Away—The Other Effects of the Assassin—A Curious Complication.

Another complication growing out of Guiteau's crime has arisen in a demand made by the District Commissioners upon the Chief of Police, Maj. Brock, to know by what authority the pistol taken from the assassin was delivered to District-Attorney Corkhill. In their communication to Major Brock the Commissioners ask: "Is it true that the revolver taken from Guiteau was delivered to District-Attorney Corkhill, when the law and custom places all property taken from prisoners in the hands of the property clerk at Police Headquarters, who is a bonded officer of the District Government? By whose authority was such action taken? The "Police Manual" says the property clerk, having given approved bonds, is authorized to receive for legal disposition all property or money taken in charge by the members of the Metropolitan police farce. Any property or money in the custody of the property clerk desired as evidence in any police or criminal court shall be delivered to any officer who shall present an order to that effect from such court; but the same shall not be retained in said court, but returned to the property clerk.

THE COMMISSIONERS ARE NETTLED

to think that this rule has been so flagrantly violated, and propose to resort to legal measures, if necessary, to compel a return of the pistol. The statement of the officer who gave the pistol to the District-Attorney the day of the shooting was that Colonel Corkhill asked to be shown the pistol and Guiteau's effects. They were quickly produced, and he put them in his pocket, saying that he would be responsible for them. The lieutenant in charge of the office at Police Headquarters was on his way to jail with Guiteau when this transaction took place, and the property clerk has never seen any of the articles taken from the prisoner. It is claimed that the District-Attorney exceeded his authority, as he had no more right to demand these articles than any private citizen had. Commissioner Morgan, in speaking of the matter yesterday, said: "You see it looses an important link in the testimony to have this pistol out of the possession of the police department.

WHEN PRODUCED IN COURT

by any person other than the one to whom it was delivered by the officer who arrested Guiteau he might not be able to swear positively that it was the same instrument taken from the assassin. It is said that it is locked up in the safe in the office of the District-Attorney, but as the law prescribes that the court alone could demand the production of an article in the hands of the property clerk I cannot conceive what right Colonel Corkhill had to act as he has in this matter. We are awaiting a reply from the major of police beforemaking a formal demand for the pistol from Colonel Corkhill, but should he refuse to give it up we will take the matter into court for settlement."

Coney Island News.

A gentleman on Wednesday evening, just before the recent benefit performance for Levy, the cornet player, approached the door of the cage of the observatory on Coney Island and attempted to enter, when the following conversation took place:

Attendant—Ticket, sir, please.

Gentleman—Ticket, sir? Boy, do you know who I am?

Attendant—No, sir; I think not.

Gentleman—Well, sir, I am Levy, the maker of this Island!

Attendant—Fifteen cents please.

A Request.

Deacon Stiles—"I have a request to make of you, Brother Potts."

Brother Potts—"Happy to oblige you if I can."

Deacon Stiles—"You kissed Mrs. S. behind an alder bush, at our last Sunday school picnic?"

Brother Potts—"Yes."

Deacon Stiles—"Well, don't do it again, please, as it might breed a coolness between the families. My mother in-law objects."

The Whole Truth.

Sam Johnsing was up before the justice the other day. The justice told him that telling the whole truth about the matter would be regarded as a mitigating circumstance, Sam said, he would tell the truth.

"Well, then, how many chickens did you steal?"

"Only five, Judge."

"Are you sure, Sam, that you didn't have more?"

"Yes, sah; I know dar was only five, because I counted 'em. Dar was three layin' hens, four roosters, and two pullets.

Plenty of Room.

A man came into an editor's room with a large roll of manuscript under his arm and said, very politely, "I have a trifle here about the beautiful sunset yesterday which was dashed off by a friend of mine, which I would like inserted if you have room." "Plenty of room. Just insert it yourself," replied the editor, gently pushing the waste paper basket toward him.

General Robert Lowery, the present candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket of Mississippi, was unable to read or write until after his marriage. His wife taught him his first lessons, and he is now a well informed man—this simply proves that a man will be a man any way.—Boston Clarion.

On Canning Fruits.

In a paper lately read before the Potomac Fruit Growers' Association, Prof. Brainard called attention to the frequent violation of certain chemical laws in the preserving of fruits, by which the natural flavor of the fruit is not only impaired, but the fruit rendered more or less poisonous. Touching on the practice of preparing fruits for preservation in metalic vessels, he said:

Of these, iron is the least objectionable, but its use is not tolerable for the reason that the tannic acid which fruit contains combines with the oxide forming the tanate of iron, thus impairing both the color and flavor of the fruit. Red or yellow glazed earthenware is the most objectionable, for the reason that the glazed contains lead and the fruit acids combining therewith form a deadly poison, often in sufficient quantity to render the use of preserves, in small quantities, dangerous.

A certain kind of ware has already been introduced into the market called "marbelized sheet iron." It has a very fine appearance, but he felt justified in placing it on the list with glazed earthenware in point of objection, for the glazing is believed to contain lead or other poisonous elements, readily dissolved in acids. This kind of ware should never be used in any cullinary process.

Obviously copper vessels are unfit for use in the preparation of any kind of food, for the reason that all the compounds of this metal are poisonous; some of them are even classed with deadly poisons. And yet in the most enlightened portions of our community, copper vessels are in almost universal and daily use, especially in the preparation of fruit. This practice cannot be two strongly condemned.

Brass vessels are but little less objectionable than those of pure copper. The zinc forming the alloy is more readily corroded than copper, but its compounds are not quite so poisonous as those of copper. In the use of copper vessels there is communicated to the fruit prepared in them a combination of the poisons of both metals used in its composition, hence there is no safety in the use of brass kettles in preserving fruit, and their employment for that purpose should be wholly discontinued.

Tinware is also objectionable, but probably less so than any other metal in common use. But any one who is at all observant must know that the bright polish of new tinware is quickly removed by cooking any kind of fruit therein, especially that possessing decidedly acid properties. The cause is the corrosion of the metal, and the product of that corrosion is held in the prepared fruit. There is another formidable objection to tinware, and that is the use of solder in uniting the joints in the vessel, solder being an alloy of tin and lead. The solder is more readily acted upon, and its compounds are more poisonous than those of tin.

The question was asked: "What then can we use?" Prof. Brainard replied in substance that, in almost every hardware store cast-iron kettles are to be found, lined upon their inside with white enamel. This is, or should be composed of porcelain, a kind of earth or clay capable of being vitrified by heat, and which will resist the action of all ordinary acids, whether vegetable or mineral. Vessels of this class can be easily tested by boiling in them a strong solution of mineral acid. If the enamel becomes corroded they are not fit for culinary purposes. There is another kind of vessel that is capable of bearing a sufficient degree of heat for preserving fruit that may be safely used. The common gray or drab colored stoneware found at almost every corner grocery—is glazed with a silicate of soda, by means of common salt, which is thrown into the kiln when the ware has attained nearly a white heat. The salt is decomposed, the chlorine escaping into air, and the sodium coming in contact with the heated ware gives a complete coating both inside and out, by union with the silica of the clay, thus forming an adherent film of soda glass. Jars for storing preserved fruit, made of this kind of ware are equalled only by those made of crown glass. Flint glass should not be used, because it contains an oxide of lead, and milk white glass contains arsenic, and should therefore be rejected.

Cans made of tin should, under no circumstances, be used for acid fruits of any kind, for the solder is readily acted upon and always contains lead, and sometimes quicksilver. In selecting glass jars the green tinged or bottle glass should be chosen, for the reason that it contains no lead, and be sure that they are provided with well-fitting glass covers. Metal covers should not be used.

A word upon the proper selection of sugar for preserving fruit. White granulated sugar is the best, though this is sometimes adulterated with an inferior kind made from potato starch (glucose), by means of sulphuric acid and lime. The spurious article contains only about 75 per cent. of saccharine matter, as compared with cane sugar. Ground sugar should never be used for preserving fruit, for it is usually adulterated with flour, gypsum or marble dust. The best quality of new brown sugar will answer a good purpose, but this is usually mixed with an inferior quality, which if a year old may contain sugar mites.
